CHAPTER 1: THE VILLAGE BOY

SCENE 1 — EXT. RAJASTHAN VILLAGE – EARLY MORNING

The sun rises over a small village. Dust moves across narrow roads. Farmers walk towards their fields. A bicycle passes an old government school.

Inside a small house, a young man sits near a window. His name is AARAV.

Aarav is 20 years old. He has an old laptop, a notebook, and a small table that is also used for eating dinner.

On his laptop, a website is open: “MY FIRST WEBSITE – UNDER CONSTRUCTION.”

Aarav types something. The website suddenly turns completely white.

AARAV: Yaar, phir se gayab ho gaya!

He opens the code. There are hundreds of lines of HTML and CSS.

His younger cousin, RAHUL, enters with a glass of water.

RAHUL: Bhai, subah se isi mein lage ho?

AARAV: Haan.

RAHUL: Kya ban raha hai?

AARAV: Website.

RAHUL: Website se kya hoga?

Aarav looks at him.

AARAV: Abhi kuch nahi. Lekin ek din isi se kuch bada hoga.

RAHUL: Kitna bada?

AARAV: Itna bada ki log mujhe mere gaon ke naam se nahi, mere kaam se jaanenge.

Rahul laughs.

RAHUL: Pehle website mein text toh dikha do.

Aarav looks back at the screen. The website is still white.

CUT TO BLACK.

SCENE 2 — INT. AARAV'S HOUSE – MORNING

Aarav's mother prepares breakfast. His father sits outside, reading a newspaper.

AARAV: Papa, ek baat poochni thi.

FATHER: Pooch.

AARAV: Agar main college ke saath coding seekhun, website banao, aur baad mein apna business start karun... toh?

His father lowers the newspaper.

FATHER: Pehle apni padhai poori kar.

AARAV: Woh toh karunga.

FATHER: Aur uske baad?

AARAV: Uske baad mujhe kisi company mein job karna zaroori nahi lagta. Main apni company bhi bana sakta hoon.

FATHER: Company banana aasaan hai?

AARAV: Nahi.

FATHER: Toh?

AARAV: Isliye toh seekh raha hoon.

His father looks at him for a moment.

FATHER: Dekh beta, sapne dekhne mein koi dikkat nahi. Lekin sapne ke saath zimmedari bhi hoti hai.

Aarav nods.

FATHER: Aur ek baat. Jo kaam shuru kare, use poora karne ki koshish kar.

Aarav gets up.

AARAV: Theek hai.

He takes his laptop and leaves. His father watches him walk away.

SCENE 3 — EXT. GOVERNMENT COLLEGE – DAY

Aarav sits on a bench with his friend, DEV. Dev studies for an examination. Aarav watches a programming tutorial on his phone.

DEV: Bhai, tu kabhi ek cheez par tikta bhi hai?

AARAV: Kyun?

DEV: Kabhi JEE, kabhi BCA, kabhi YouTube, kabhi AI, kabhi website.

AARAV: Sab alag nahi hain.

DEV: Kaise?

AARAV: Website se business ban sakta hai. Business se paisa aa sakta hai. Coding se software ban sakta hai. Software se company.

DEV: Aur company se?

AARAV: Phir dusri company.

Dev smiles.

DEV: Tere sapne ka end kya hai?

Aarav looks at the college building.

AARAV: Abhi pata nahi.

DEV: Toh phir shuru kahan se karega?

Aarav opens his notebook and writes: “STEP 1: LEARN TO BUILD SOMETHING THAT WORKS.”

It is 11:40 PM. Aarav works on his website, which is supposed to help students find educational resources.

He has added a study section, a coding section, a project section, and a contact page. But none of the links work.

He tries to fix the navigation bar. It breaks the entire page. He tries again. The background turns black.

Aarav shuts the laptop, stands up, and walks outside. The village is quiet. He sits on a wall.

His phone rings. It is Dev.

DEV (PHONE): Kya hua?

AARAV: Website kharab ho gayi.

DEV: Toh kal theek kar lena.

AARAV: Kal bhi toh kaam hai.

DEV: Aarav, ek baat bata. Website bana raha hai ya website ke peeche apni neend kharab kar raha hai?

Aarav does not answer.

DEV: Ek ghanta so ja. Subah fresh mind se kar.

Aarav looks at the stars.

AARAV: Theek hai.

He returns home.

AARAV: Students ke liye.

SHARMA: Students ko kya problem hai?

Aarav pauses.

AARAV: Sir... unhe resources nahi milte.

SHARMA: Kaunse resources?

AARAV: Notes, coding tutorials, assignments ke examples.

SHARMA: Toh pehle students se poochho ki unhe kya chahiye.

Aarav looks at the teacher.

SHARMA: Ek developer sirf code nahi likhta. Problem samajhta hai.

Aarav writes this down: “UNDERSTAND THE PROBLEM BEFORE BUILDING THE SOLUTION.”

SCENE 6 — EXT. VILLAGE SCHOOL – AFTERNOON

Aarav visits his old school. He meets a student named IMRAN.

IMRAN: Bhaiya, aap yahan kaise?

AARAV: Tum logon ko padhai mein kya dikkat hoti hai?

IMRAN: Computer nahi hain.

AARAV: Phone hai?

IMRAN: Haan.

AARAV: Internet?

IMRAN: Kabhi chalta hai, kabhi nahi.

Aarav looks around the school. A few students sit outside a classroom.

AARAV: Agar main tumhare liye ek website banaun, jahan free notes aur lessons milen, toh use karoge?

IMRAN: Agar chal gayi toh.

Aarav laughs.

AARAV: Agar chal gayi toh?

IMRAN: Bhaiya, pichhli baar bhi aapne website banayi thi. Usmein sirf heading dikhti thi.

Aarav stops laughing.

IMRAN: Is baar sahi banana.

Aarav nods.

AARAV: Is baar sahi banayenge.

Aarav stares at the screen and opens the email.

The message reads: “Your website is only the beginning. There is something in your village that you have never noticed. Find the old school computer room. Look behind the third desk.”

Aarav looks at the clock: 12:07 AM.

He closes the laptop, thinks, then opens it again and types: “Who are you?”

AARAV: Haan.

DEV: Kyun?

AARAV: Kisi ne message bheja hai.

DEV: Kisne?

AARAV: Pata nahi.

DEV: Aarav, raat ko school mein kya kar raha hai?

Aarav looks at the building.

AARAV: Kal subah jaunga.

He opens it. Inside is an old notebook and a USB drive.

The notebook has a name written on it: “PROJECT AAKASH.”

Aarav opens the notebook.

The first page says: “To whoever finds this: the future of this village depends on what you do next.”

He turns the page. There are diagrams of a communication network, a plan for a village emergency system, and a map.

The map shows the entire village. One location is marked with a red circle: THE ABANDONED WATER TANK.

> VIKRAM: Agar tum ye video dekh rahe ho, toh iska matlab hai ki tumne Project Aakash dhoondh liya.

Aarav leans closer.

> VIKRAM: Maine is project ko das saal pehle shuru kiya tha. Iska purpose tha ek aisa system banana jo emergency ke samay poore gaon ko information de sake.

Aarav looks at the diagrams.

> VIKRAM: Flood, earthquake, fire, ya kisi bhi emergency mein... logon tak information pahunchna sabse important hota hai.

The video pauses. Aarav presses play.

> VIKRAM: Lekin project complete nahi hua.

Aarav looks at the screen.

> VIKRAM: Agar tum ise complete karna chahte ho, toh tumhe teen cheezein dhoondhni hongi.

The screen displays three locations: the old water tank, the village library, and the abandoned railway building.

> VIKRAM: In teen jagahon par project ke parts rakhe gaye hain.

The video ends.

Aarav sits silently, then opens his notebook and writes: “PROJECT AAKASH – REBUILD.”

> DEV: Aur agar kisi ne mazaak kiya ho?

AARAV: Toh humne subah ki walk kar li.

Dev laughs.

Aarav walks towards the tank. They notice a small metal cabinet attached to the wall. It is locked.

Aarav looks around. There is a number written on the cabinet: 2005.

Dev notices it.

DEV: Tera birth year?

The librarian stops.

KAVITA: Tumhe ye naam kahan se mila?

AARAV: Ek notebook se.

She looks at him carefully.

KAVITA: Dr. Vikram Singh?

Aarav nods.

KAVITA: Woh yahan aate the.

AARAV: Kya hua unke saath?

The librarian sits down.

KAVITA: Unhone ek system banaya tha. Gaon mein emergency ke time information pahunchane ke liye.

AARAV: Phir project band kyun hua?

KAVITA: Kyunki kisi ko uski zaroorat nahi samajh aayi.

Aarav looks at her.

KAVITA: Logon ne kaha, “Hamare gaon mein aisa kya ho jayega?”

Aarav looks at the old books.

KAVITA: Phir ek din... Dr. Vikram chale gaye.

AARAV: Kahan?

His mother sits down.

MOTHER: Haan.

Aarav waits.

MOTHER: Jab tum chhote the, woh tumhare school mein ek project lekar aaye the.

AARAV: Kaisa project?

MOTHER: Gaon ke liye computer aur communication system.

Aarav looks at the photograph again.

AARAV: Mujhe yaad kyun nahi?

MOTHER: Tum bahut chhote the.

Aarav sits beside her.

MOTHER: Shayad tumhe yaad dilane ke liye.

Aarav looks at the photograph. The boy in the picture is smiling.

SCENE 14 — INT. AARAV'S ROOM – NIGHT

Aarav opens the notebook and studies the diagrams.

He understands that Project Aakash is not just a website. It is a system that can connect the village school, library, water tank, and public buildings.

The system can send emergency messages. It can share educational resources. It can help people communicate when mobile networks fail.

Aarav begins writing code. Dev sits beside him.

DEV: Ab samajh aa raha hai?

AARAV: Thoda.

DEV: Aur kya nahi samajh aa raha?

AARAV: Kaafi kuch.

AARAV: Agar mobile network band ho jaye, toh bhi local communication ka ek option ho sakta hai.

IMRAN: Kaise?

AARAV: Ab test karenge.

He presses a button. A message appears on the computer: “TEST MESSAGE: SCHOOL TO LIBRARY.”

At the library, Mrs. Kavita receives the message. She smiles.

The system works.

Aarav looks at the students.

AARAV: Lekin ye abhi sirf test hai.

He points to the device.

AARAV: Isse emergency system banane ke liye aur testing, safety checks, aur technical work karna hoga.

Dev looks at him.

DEV: Bhai, pehla step toh ho gaya.

Aarav nods.

AARAV: Haan.

SCENE 16 — EXT. VILLAGE SQUARE – EVENING

Aarav and Dev walk. A few villagers discuss the project.

VILLAGER 1: Computer se gaon ki problem solve hogi?

VILLAGER 2: Pehle sadak toh theek ho.

Aarav stops.

AARAV: Aapki baat sahi hai.

The villagers look at him.

AARAV: Computer har problem solve nahi kar sakta.

He points towards the school.

AARAV: Lekin agar students ko padhai ke resources milen...

He points towards the water tank.

AARAV: Agar emergency mein information pahunch sake...

He looks at the villagers.

AARAV: Toh kuch problems mein help ho sakti hai.

The villagers remain silent.

AARAV: Main ye nahi keh raha ki sab kuch ek website se badal jayega.

He takes a breath.

DEV: Kya hua?

AARAV: System start nahi ho raha.

DEV: Ab?

Aarav looks at the device. He notices that the power supply is damaged.

AARAV: Backup power.

Dev looks around.

DEV: Kahan milega?

Aarav remembers the project notebook. It mentions a backup unit in the abandoned railway building.

Aarav smiles.

Suddenly, another video starts. Dr. Vikram Singh appears.

VIKRAM: Aarav, agar tum yahan tak pahunch gaye ho, toh tumne project ka pehla hissa complete kar liya.

Aarav stares at the screen.

VIKRAM: Lekin ek baat tumhe batani hai.

The video pauses, then continues.

VIKRAM: Maine ye project tumhare liye nahi banaya tha.

Aarav looks confused.

VIKRAM: Maine ise gaon ke liye banaya tha.

Aarav looks at the screen.

VIKRAM: Tum is project ko apna bana sakte ho. Lekin yaad rakhna...

THE END

FILM'S MAIN MESSAGE

The story is not about a boy who becomes successful overnight. It is about a boy who keeps learning, makes mistakes, asks questions, and builds something useful.

Aarav's biggest achievement is not that he creates a website or an emergency system. It is that he learns to turn an idea into real work.
